Chapter 1 by Mac_Da_Yak

We had been adrift for weeks on the freighter Hope, funny, running low on food and close to sinking. We were all tired and starving. Two people had already died. The freighter had a huge hole in the side, part of the deck was gone, and the shipping containers were almost all gone. All of a sudden, our banged up boat hit something. We all ran to the side where we had been hit. There was land. We ran off the boat and started looking for signs of life, but it was hard with the heavy fog. We went back to the boat until the fog lifted. When it finally lifted, we saw we had hit next to the ruins of a village. We looked around. There were bodies everywhere and smoke still rising up from the ruins. This had happened recently.
